Yes/No/Considering

We want to be transparent with you about our current capacity.

Due to high demand, we currently operate a waiting list for all our services. While we aim to support everyone as quickly as possible, we do our best to ensure that survivors with the most urgent needs are offered timely support, however, there may be a wait of several months before ongoing support becomes available. We understand how difficult this can be, and we are here to offer guidance and interim resources where possible.

Like many charities, RCG is facing increasing challenges in securing sustainable funding. Our core funding has not increased for several years, despite a growing need for our services. This directly affects our ability to offer immediate support to every survivor at the point of referral.

We remain committed to advocating for better resources and doing everything we can to support survivors with compassion and care.
